The riotous conduct yesterday of the striking weavers at Bradford, Yorkshire, continues. A large concourse of people gathered this morning about the Town Hall square. There is great excitement in the town. Police have as yet refrained from interference with the strikers, but the troops in the barracks are under arms. Several arrests have been made. The proprietors of the mills say the weavers are perfectly willing to return to work, but they are terrified by the leaders and labor agitators.

A Paris dispatch says that the French naval authorities express themselves as much amused at the Kaiser's proposition that in the next war the German fleet should destroy the enemy by one great coup. The French are confident of maintaining their maritime superiority over the Germans, whatever may be the case on land, and a leading Admiral is credited with the remark that very few of Germany's vessels would survive the coup; that it would be another Lissa, and with more disastrous consequences for Germany than that battle had for Italy.

In other quarters the Kaiser's remarks are accepted as indicating a set purpose to provoke a conflict with France and Russia, and that no distant date. By the manufacture of arms in France the Russian forces will soon be completely equipped with the most modern weapons of destruction. It is said that the Czar's gratification with the promptitude and perfection of the French-manufactured repeating rifles for the Russian Army was one of his motives for decorating President Carnot with the Order of St. Andrew.

PARIS, April 14th. It is announced to-day that the German Government has decided to conclude commercial treaties with Belgium, Switzerland and Italy. In addition to the Commercial Treaty now in progress between Germany and Austria. This progress between Germany and Austria. This progress between Germany and Austria. This progress between Germany and Austria.

LIVERPOOL, April 14th. The Liverpool Star has caused something of a sensation by attacking the Manchester Canal enterprise as an impracticable one, giving some startling facts to uphold its assertions. It declares that an unforeseen obstacle has been encountered in the shape of a huge deposit of rock at the entrance, involving the cost of excavating 200,000 cubic yards of solid granite. This would add a round £1,000,000 to the cost of the work above the current estimates. The Star accordingly predicts the collapse of the scheme.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 14th. A young officer named Annenkov, belonging to the regiment of the Grand Duke Nicholas the younger, now stationed at Gatchina, committed suicide under very mysterious circumstances. A note was found on his table, explaining that no other course was open to him, as he had been grossly insulted by a personage of such an exalted position that it was impossible for him to demand satisfaction. It is reported that the Grand Duke Nicholas the younger was the cause of the tragedy. The newspapers of the capital have received strict injunctions from the Censor of the Press not to mention the subject.

DUBLIN, April 14th. The Freeman's Journal, asserts that Justin Hunt McCarthy, son of the anti-Parnellite leader, will shortly announce his conversion to the tenets of Buddhism. The young man has been a zealous student of Orientalism, but it was not generally supposed that he had more than a passing admiration for the mystic doctrine of Guatama.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 14th. A Russian warship belonging to the Volynets fleet, fired on the Turkish authorities on duty at the Dardanelles. The Russian vessel was proceeding on her way to Vladivostok, Asia, near the northern limit of Korea, on the Sea of Japan. She was loaded with railroad materials and had as passengers a large number of "military workmen," according to the term used by the Russians, who are detailed to construct the Trans-Siberian Railroad. The officer in command of the Russian ship, upon being brought to the guns of the forts at the Dardanelles, immediately appealed to the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople—De Neldoff—who, in turn, entered the strongest protest possible with the Turkish officials of this city. Neldoff claimed in warm terms that the action of the Turkish officers at the Dardanelles was in direct and flagrant violation of the commercial treaties existing between Russia and Turkey. After considerable interchange of views on the subject the Porte finally came to the conclusion that it would be undesirable to detain the warship any further, and she was allowed to pass.

The action of the Turkish authorities in stopping the Russian warship was taken on the ground that by the treaty of 1841 between the five great Powers and Turkey, it was decided no ship of war belonging to any nation, save Turkey, should pass the Dardanelles without the express consent of Turkey.

BUENOS AIRES, April 14th. General Rocca, Minister of the Interior, has resigned.

LONDON, April 15th. Rioting was renewed at Bradford last evening by the striking weavers. The mob numbered at least 20,000 persons. The street-lamps were extinguished by the rioters. The military, police and special constables charged and dispersed the mob. Many persons were injured. The rioters again gathered in Sunbide street at 10 o'clock to-night. The police attempted to disperse the mob, but the rioters proved too strong. Finally the police made a flank movement, and by this means succeeded in making the men retreat, but not without a fierce struggle, during which all the windows in the buildings on Sunbide street were smashed by the shower of missiles with which the strikers sought to repulse the police.

A terrible riot is reported to have occurred at Bading, Posen, between Army reserves going on duty and the police. The trouble appears to have originated in some rudeness on the part of the police toward the military. The latter resented and a bloody fight ensued, both police and soldiers using their weapons freely. The police got the best of the struggle and three of the reserve men were killed.

PARIS, April 15th. Dispatches from Chile state that a desperate battle, resulting in a victory for the Chilean insurgents, was fought at Copiapo, the capital of the province of Atacama. Only meager details are given. The dispatches say the insurgents, after a long and determined struggle, defeated with heavy loss a force of 3,000 of President Balmaceda's troops. The dispatches, which are supposed to have originated from insurgent sources, add that the insurgent army is increasing steadily in strength, and intends shortly to march upon the capital, Santiago de Chile, and Valparaiso.

ROME, April 15th. The Vatican has just completed its labors in connection with the reorganization of the Catholic Church in Brazil. That country will henceforth be divided into two ecclesiastical provinces. The new province formed will be that of Rio de Janeiro. The number of dioceses is increased from twelve to sixteen.

Very important negotiations have taken place between the Vatican and the Bishops of South America. The Pope requested each Bishop to give his opinion as to the advisability of holding a grand South American Ecclesiastical Council on the model of the one recently held in Baltimore. The majority of the Bishops gave a decision in favor of the proposition and the Council will accordingly be held shortly. Its aim will be the entire reorganization of the American churches. The Vatican also decided to increase the number of Mexican Bishops and a Provincial or National Council will soon be convoked.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 15th. In spite of the peaceful utterances of Government officials in Europe everybody knows that Russia is making extensive preparations for war, and that her rivals are, on their side, making counter-preparations for a great struggle, which must sooner or later take place. Russia has been expending enormous sums in the construction of strategic railroads, and in this and other ways arrangements for the transportation of large bodies of Russian troops to the Austro-German frontier are almost completed.

DUBLIN, April 15th. It is stated in well-informed quarters that Messrs. Sexton and Healy are having a serious quarrel in regard to the editorial management of the National Press, the organ of the McCarthy party. Mr. Sexton, it is said, objects to Mr. Healy's praising himself in letters unsigned or bearing fictitious signatures, and there are other matters in dispute between the two men.

MADRID, April 15th. At the International Conference for the Protection of Industrial Property, held in this city to-day, all the foreign ministers, including the United States Minister, signed the document embodying provisions for the protection of industrial property, agreed upon at the Conference of Technical Delegates, held in 1890, and representing the practice of making false declarations as to the origin of merchandise and favoring the keeping of an international register of trade-marks.

BRUSSELS, April 15th. The statement by the Etat Belge that Henry M. Stanley has been appointed Governor of Congo State is officially denied.

LISBON, April 15th. The entire Cabinet has resigned. The King will announce his action in the matter to-morrow.

LONDON, April 15th. A telegram from Pretoria, South Africa Republic, announces that a Boer expedition, with the consent of Portugal will establish a republic in either Mashonaland or Manicaland. This project, if carried out, will affect the Manica territory claimed by England, and will probably result in further trouble between England and Portugal.

Dispatches received here from Durban, South Africa, show that the Portuguese authorities are taking a high hand in Mashonaland. This latest instance of their hostility to British interests in that district is likely to cause further tension in the relations between the governments of Great Britain and Portugal. There are a number of British colonists who, settled in Mashonaland, and the mails destined for them are carried by the way of Beira, a Portuguese settlement. A short time ago, upon the arrival of the British mail sacks at Beira, the Portuguese authorities held them and refused to allow them to be carried to their destination. Great indignation on the part of British colonists was aroused by this high-handed proceeding.

Another dispatch from South Africa says that Sir John Willoughby has reached Delagoa Bay. He reported on his arrival at Beira he applied for permission to proceed to the Pange river and offered to pay the prescribed duties. As he received no answer after forty-eight hours he started without permission, when the Portuguese opened fire upon him, seized his two steamers with the mails and provisions and imprisoned sixteen of the crew. Sir John Willoughby says that the lives of the British at Beira are in great danger. The explanation of the seizure given at Lisbon is that Sir John Willoughby's vessels attempted to proceed up the river without paying duties.

Further details regarding the firing upon the British steamer Agnes, which was engaged in conveying the expedition, and the seizure of the cargo of boats engaged in the same service, show that Sir John Willoughby, commanding the Agnes, endeavored to secure the release of his vessels by the payment of the usual customs duty of 3 per cent, imposed by the Portuguese. The officials refused to accept this payment, and, ordering the British flag hauled down, hoisted the Portuguese flag in its place. The Portuguese declare the British are excluded from the Pange river, which the boats were navigating when seized, and that the whole water route is under Portuguese control. Several British colonists have been imprisoned and most of the British settlers have returned from Mashonaland on account of the arbitrary action of the Portuguese. There is every evidence that a serious rupture is impending between the Portuguese and the British authorities.

The Tribune, commenting on the Willoughby seizure, says that the Portuguese Government appears to invite a visit from an English fleet.

Both the News and Standard, in commenting upon the seizure of the Willoughby expedition, say that Portugal is goading England to the utmost limits allowable even to a weak Power.

The action for breach of promise brought by Gladys Evelyn against William Henry Hubbert continued to-day, the jury bringing in a verdict for the defendant. During the proceedings to-day there was a startling scene. Mrs. Hubbert, wife of the defendant, was present, and at one point, where the judge was particularly severe, cried: "Oh, my Lord, I cannot listen to a pack of lies." Mrs. Hubbert, amid much excitement, was conducted from the court-room.

The German Government, with the view of retaining some of the young men who are pouring out of Germany to evade military service, has undertaken to colonize the extensive and barren moors of Eastern Prussia. Pent works have been erected, and colonists are assisted to establish homes for the purpose of attending to the peat products. The prospect is a gloomy one for settlers, and it is believed that the Government will have to employ convict labor at the task, as it will be difficult to induce free labor to go there.

A dispatch to the Graphic from Kiev says: It is stated in military circles that the Government intends to increase its forces on the south-western frontier by 50,000 men.

A Rome dispatch says that the Government has agreed to give free passage to America to any of the informers and other witnesses in the Mala Vita prosecution that may desire it, and it is believed that the offer will be gladly taken advantage of by all of them. Several of the witnesses who testified in the case have already reached Naples under police protection, and are undoubtedly awaiting the first chance to emigrate to the United States.

PARIS, April 20th. Baron Fava, the Italian Minister at Washington, who recently left the United States on leave of absence, arrived here on his way to Rome. The Soleil claims the Baron is much annoyed at the action of the United States in regard to the New Orleans affair. According to that paper, the Baron, while on his way across the Atlantic, assured several of his fellow passengers that the Marquis Imperiali, Italian Chargé d'Affaires at Washington, would be recalled. Italy, the Baron is said to have added, would not have a diplomatic representative at Washington until the New Orleans affair is finally settled.

ROME, April 20th. A gentleman informed a London correspondent on Friday that while he hated and despised the Mafia, he recognized that the vendetta was inevitable and that the leaders in the American tragedy would die by violence sooner or later, though perhaps not for two or three years. He said that this was the chief reason in Italy for punishing murder with imprisonment instead of death, as a vendetta had always followed the capital penalty.

BERLIN, April 20th. The walls of the Germania pit, near Genserkichen, collapsed on Saturday, burying a large number of miners in the ruins. Four men were killed outright and several injured. Many of the men are entombed in the mine, and their fate is uncertain, though it is thought they will be rescued.

LONDON, April 21st. The influenza is raging in London. One-third of the members of the National Liberal Club and a majority of the inmates of one of the largest hotels are down with the disease. The extension of the epidemic is feared by the weather. Telegrams from Leeds and Sheffield report a similar state of affairs.

There was great excitement in military circles this morning, when the men of the Third Battalion, Grenadier Guards, quartered at Chelsea Barracks in this city, refused to obey an order to parade in full marching order. The oldest members are the more discontented portion of the battalion. The men having the longest terms of service were placed under arrest and an investigation into the cause of the mutiny was commenced. The men declare they have been long subjected to a series of excessively annoying drills for which there is no cause or reason. They say the drill is not ordered with the view of perfecting the battalion in military maneuvers or in the manual of arms, but solely for the convenience of their officers.

The Press Association announces that Lord Salisbury has directed Sir George Glynn, Peter, British Minister at Lisbon, to demand from the Portuguese Government an immediate explanation of the seizure of the British vessels at Beira, and if the response is not satisfactory Lord Salisbury will insist upon reparation.

Advices from Cape Town confirm the statement previously made that the British settlers in Mashonaland and Manicaland are everywhere preparing for a fight with the Portuguese. Gungunhama has sent messages repudiating allegiance to Portugal and asking to be taken under the protection of the English. The city is said to be deeply engaged in the abduction by the Portuguese of two of his sons and one daughter as hostages. The sons were taken to Portugal to be educated and the daughter is detained at Mozambique. Gungunhama was frightened into submission at first, but a British trader has informed him that the Portuguese would not dare to injure the children, and now he wants to fight.

The young Chief Umbati of Gungunhama's kraal, to whom the daughter was to have been married shortly, has already started with a band of warriors to fight the Portuguese. The British South African Company's leading representatives in London have held a meeting to discuss the South African question. The opinion was freely expressed that unless Portugal promptly ceased her high-handed measures the company would have to take action in defence of its charter rights.

Advices from Batumbi, the capital of Gambia, a British colony of West Africa, state that the envoy sent by the Governor to the King of Gambia protesting against deprivations and abuses suffered by English colonists was escorted back by the King's body-guard, after pieces of fish were cut from his body. Three British gunboats have already ascended the Gambia river to avenge the outrage.

A correspondent of the Times at Madrid says grave anxiety is felt here over the state of affairs in Portugal. He expresses fears that a revolution is about to break out in which event, he says, the lives of foreign subjects will be endangered.

William Henry Hubbert is about to start for America to accelerate the search for his former secretary, Wilfred Murray. On his return he will reopen the Evelyn case to vindicate himself. He says his evidence was defective, because he understood the case was not to be tried till July. Miss Evelyn will ask for a new trial.

PARIS, April 22nd. Representations have again been made to Emperor William of Germany asking him to relax the passport regulations in force in Alsace-Lorraine, in order to enable the inhabitants of French towns near the German frontier to attend fairs and markets held in the German territory. The Emperor, it is added, refused to accede, claiming that the time for such a change has not yet arrived.

A judgment was rendered to-day in the libel suit of John W. Mackay, the millionaire, against Gaitaneri's Messenger. Blor den, the director, will have to undergo sixteen months' imprisonment.

ROME, April 22nd. Baron Fava, the Italian Minister at Washington, who recently left that city on leave of absence, has arrived here. Immediately after the Baron's arrival he had a prolonged conference with Di Rudinì upon the New Orleans affair. The outcome of this conference has not been made public.

Many Anarchists have been expelled from this city for agitating for a general strike on May day.

Replying to an interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies, in regard to the decoration recently conferred by the King of Italy upon Chief Inspector Byrnes of New York, and which was declined by the latter, Di Rudinì, the Prime Minister, said the decoration referred to had been conferred with the usual forms, adding it was a trivial incident, which did not merit being discussed in Parliament.

FOOCHOW.

16th May, 1891.

We understand that the price of Flower Pekoe tea country is $140 per picul.

The heavy rain on Saturday last has demolished another fine wall over the Bridge, and we regret to learn that seven inmates of a house were buried under it.

During the latter part of the week the price of rice has gone up some thirty cents a picul, and the cause of the rise is the usual old story—no much rain! And yet junks loaded with rice are arriving freely from both North and South into this port. The rise is undoubtedly, as we have stated before, a quintessence by the retail dealers, who we observe, have never failed to put up the price as soon as the weather has been rainy for two or three days. Such proceedings deserve the gravest attention of the authorities, as it is a most barefaced robbery of the poorer classes in these hard times.

It has not been officially notified, but we hear that the Stewards of the Foochow Race Club propose to hold a Scurry Race-Meeting on the afternoon of the 27th instant. A few energetic riders attend at the Race-course every morning, endeavoring to get their mares somewhat fit to gallop, but we fear it is a waste of labour. The Race-course is thoroughly saturated with water, and is quite rotten and unsafe to gallop upon. With every prospect of this wet weather continuing, and it is seasonable just now, we think the odds are Lombard Street to a China orange that the meeting will not take place. In any case, should the rain cease, the course will not be fit for racing for at least two weeks.—Echo.

CHEFOO.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

6th May, 1891.

A violent gale from the S. W., which sprang up with remarkable suddenness, commenced to blow on Sunday morning and continued with great force throughout that day and Monday, ceasing, with the same abruptness with which it had started, shortly after sunset on Monday. While the gale lasted, the sea in the harbor presented a very wild and turbulent aspect. The flying spray was swept high in all over the huge waves, which broke over each other in scething masses of white foam, their whiteness being intensified by the strange lurid colour of the sky above, which seemed to form a menace upon the warring elements beneath.

Thick clouds of dust swept all through the settlement, blinding the unfortunate pedestrians whom necessity compelled to face the howling storm, and penetrating tightly closed doors and windows, and making everything generally grimy, with a thick coating of pulverised filth.

The small tug that plies between here and Weikwei while returning from the latter place early this morning sighted an overturned boat which, upon being approached, was discovered to be a small fishing craft that had been capsized the previous night, drowning three of the occupants, who upon the boat being sighted, were found under the hatch of the small cabin. The only survivor—an old man—who had managed to crawl on the bottom of the overturned boat, was taken on board the tug, in a very weak and exhausted condition. No doubt other casualties have occurred among the small native craft, many of which must have been caught in the gale on Monday.

Two of the Nestorian priests, to whom we referred a few days ago, have lately paid Chefoo a visit, and from a glance that, by the donation of a dollar, I was enabled to obtain of their subscription-book I should conclude that they have reaped a good harvest, as nothing daunted, they impudently anybody and everybody, being rarely met by a refusal. They were not loquacious; their limited stock of English prevented that; they simply bowed and smiled—a good old primitive Christian smile, though, by the way, strongly redolent of ancient Hebraic—and presented their rather grimy book and a slip of paper setting forth the object of their pilgrimage and signed by one of our resident doctors, who stated his inability to vouch for their "orthodoxy," though, methinks, the bread point of their homily was of more importance to the charitably disposed than the narrower question of their religious erub. It would be surprising to learn that any money collected by the representatives of a one time important sect whose enterprise had led them to journey all this distance from their native mountains of Kurdistan.

I hear that Mr. Frank Smith, of the Customs' service, leaves on next month for England, on a well earned vacation of two years.—N. C. Daily News.

CHINAN FU.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

April 27th.

In the last few weeks there have been several calamities befalling this city. Nearly two weeks ago a fire occurred at the residence of a prominent official, a relative of the Governor. Some priests were performing rites in honour of the dead, and the paper that was burned set fire to the mat-tens, and so to the house. Three persons were lost in the flames.

A week ago a large fire occurred in the city south of the Treasurer's yamen, burning some thirty buildings on one of the business streets; just then the fire was raging and completely destroyed in the west suburb which, however, was speedily overcome.

Last week as the Governor was returning from his tour of inspection, a sad calamity befell his retinue. They came down the Yellow River with the rushing tide when a heavy wind struck one of the boats, which as it turned nearly over struck another boat, which capsized. Some forty persons are reported as lost, some of them officials, soldiers, etc.

Owing to these occurrences the Governor has been in a state of deep distress. The fire-god and river-god are both objects of animosity at present, while the calamities are regarded as the wrath of heaven.

Rumours have been afloat of a war with Russia. The people hear of the Russian King or some one of rank coming to China with millions of soldiers, and the cause is supposed to be war. The Governor was reported to have received an order to at once hasten to Tientsin and go with Li Heng-chang to Chefoo, where something was about to occur. As yet the Governor is here, and probably, if he goes to Chefoo, it will be to try and see the Czarwick of Russia, the "one country" at China fears.

Owing to the absence of any member of the English Baptist Mission, the book-store, started by that Mission has been placed in charge of Mr. Reid, of the American Presbyterian Mission. Several days ago the shop was formally opened; friends and neighbours sent their congratulations and decorations, and a feast was prepared in return.

The Rev. W. E. Lane and wife have left for the United States. Mr. Lane was one of the heroes in the late Chingchow riot, but partly as a result of that excitement his health has been seriously affected, and he is therefore compelled to leave for a more favourable atmosphere and certainly more favourable people.

The weather has been very changeable of late, one day hot as summer, and the next coming with a cold winter blast. Owing to this there is an increase of sickness among the people.—N. C. Daily News.

CHUNGKING.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

April 24th.

We shall still have to state that the military parade, marking time. The foreign Custom House was opened on the 1st March with a great flourish of trumpets, grand official reception, dramatic displays of gorgeous robes, processions of sedan chairs and firing of guns; a special junk harbour was marked out on the opposite bank of the mighty river for the anchorage of junks sailing under the new rules, and a convenient temple near-by rented as a residence for the foreign examining staff; the most courteous of Commissioners, Mr. H. E. Hobson, who has been hard at work since last autumn settling the preliminaries, assisted by an exceptionally competent Indian staff, sits daily at "the receipt of custom" which cometh not, charm the Tsoai never so wisely. It is consoling to a Britisher to know that the new-inspiring representative of his own most influential and non-pullible Government held himself rigidly aloof from all these perie amusements—foreseeing doubtless (I mean, the Minister behind him) that nothing real was intended. Having vanquished the threatened invasion of the Kwling, it is a small matter now to postpone the promised opening of the port to junks foreign-owned, until the Greek Ralendis.

Not that absolutely nothing has been done or is doing. The Chinese merchants, who are the people chiefly interested and who, with their usual common sense, ceased to take any interest in the so-called opening, once they learnt that the hoped-for coming of steamers was a vain delusion, now find that instead of their business being facilitated by the change, it is virtually brought to a standstill. This unexpected state of things has been brought about by a notice from the Tsoai that no goods are to pass through the new office for which khin or Transit certificates cannot be produced. Unfortunately our Government have agreed to this clause being generally inserted in the foreign Customs regulations at all the ports, notwithstanding that it is manifestly at variance with treaties which stipulate for an export duty of five per cent, or any other figure. However, there it is, and I suppose the Shanghai Tsoai would be in his right if he were to charge twenty-five per cent. khin on silk from Huchow and a quadruple the stipulated tariff duty, as far as not impeded by transit passes. He has as it may, our merchants here say that no tax was ever levied before on produce leaving the city for down-river, and further that any khin that was levied before was collected at the barriers before entering the city. It is after passing these barriers that the goods are sold to our local merchants and brokers who export them to Hankow. Now the Tsoai wants another khin on the raw produce before it passes the new Customs, where it has now to pay for export duty and a half-duty and this irrespective of what the goods have already paid. This, the merchants say, is impossible. Once the goods enter the city they are sorted, classified and sold all over the different markets in the place. So they positively refuse to pay this new impost and threaten to shut up shop until their governors and masters revert to a more reasonable frame of mind. This "strike" plan is not new in Chungking but it will not be lightly adopted as, serious though it would undoubtedly be for the authorities, the merchants too risk heavy loss in the riot that would certainly ensue, should the officers prove stiff-necked and not give way to mob demonstration at the first symptom of violence, which to tell the truth, they almost invariably do.

No city of its size that I know has so large a proportion of its inhabitants dependent upon their daily earnings for their subsistence. Up the steep rocky stairs that give access to the walls of this fortress-like town, everything, including the daily supply of water and fuel, is carried some hundreds of feet by vast gangs of hilling coolies: each boat—and these are engaged in the trade number thousands—has its crew of hilling trackers. These are not people to be trifled with if their hand-to-mouth livelihood is suddenly cut off, and—as the brokers say—when the merchants close, the coolies will soon settle the Tsoai and his new khin. As Sir Lucius O'Trigger says,—"It's a mighty pretty quarrel as it now stands, and there's lots of quiet sleeping ground in the abbey yonder," and indeed it would be amusing enough for us all and give us a little excitement in this dull corner, to look on while the quarrel is being fought out, but for the fact that the unfortunate foreigners are liable to come in the way of the angry mob, and that the hilling coolies are wanted by a little firmness and plain speaking on the part of our Representatives to put a stop to all this fooling. But the British Government, at whose instigation all this disturbance has arisen, seem now to have forgotten the existence of the port which it made so much fuss about opening.—N. C. Daily News.

T SINGKIANGPU.

and May, 1891.

Everything is very dry in these parts now, and most of the ponds that usually have some water in them the year round, are completely dried up. The water in the Grand Canal is so low that a dam has been thrown across the old bed of the Yellow river to keep all the water possible in the canal. At this place the canal divides and unites again half a mile lower down, and one khik has been dammed up to hold all the water in the main stream. The occasion of all this husbanding of the water supply is to enable the Emperor's rice boats to pass. They have been here several days and all have not yet passed. There are several hundred of them and they travel in regular order, divided up into eighteen little fleets, each numbering forty boats. Each boat has the number of the fleet and its own number in that fleet. Every fleet has its little official in command and the whole is generally commanded by a Tsoai. At present however they have none, since the one who was in charge has been deposed by the Viceroy, as he was found to be a defaulter to the tune of 200,000 taels and his successor has not yet arrived, but is expected shortly.

The time made by the rice boats is characteristic of the Chinese, as they only travel from ten to forty days unless the wind is very strong. In their favour from this place onwards their rate of speed will probably be lessened on account of the low water.

Besides the Emperor's rice, these boats are loaded down with every conceivable kind of merchandise, and the sides of the boats, and on top, are in many cases loaded with logs; some even have smaller boats tied on behind, loaded down with lumber and bamboo, all of which pass the two big customs and the many little "squeeze stations" without a challenge—a big haul for the boatmen especially if they observe the old custom (which they are fastidious sticklers are they for custom) of abstaining from the use of rice and of making the remainder swell up to the original bulk by a little canal water.

Many are the questions asked about the Czarwick. The Chinese cannot believe he has come on a pleasure trip; they want to know why he has so many gunboats with him; and in spite of what is told them they persist in thinking he has sinister designs on the Empire, this idea being strengthened by the fact that so many of the little guard-boats on the Grand Canal have been ordered South.

The weather has been quite cool for ten odd days past, and it tells on the corn just coming up, which has a bluish and bleached appearance. The wheat looks fairly well, notwithstanding the dry weather, and the poppy grows apace.—N. C. Daily News.

Prices are inclined to fall at the close, late arrivals from many districts show taint of tar, and parcels with that character are entirely neglected. A small parcel of choicest Ningchow is said to have been settled by a Russian firm at Tia. 100 per picul, this however is not confirmed yet. Pure Oopicks and Onams continue to be settled at Tia. 39 to Tia. 60 for the Russian market, and these are the dearest Chinese teas purchased yet. Shannans, which are good at Tia. 19 to Tia. 24, and five Kemas at Tia. 41 to Tia. 48, show the best value, but rates all round are too high to last. The steamer Myayna has not yet been circulated, scarcely anything having yet been done for the English market.

HE CAME HOME TO DIE.

One day in December, 1888, a British transport vessel arrived at Gaspot. On a brief look, we needed to assure the spectator that she had made the long voyage from India. There were soldiers on board, some on leave of absence to visit home, and others so worn and wasted that it was plain to see why they were come back from the East to the dear old island. Of these poor fellows a few were able to go on to their friends, while others were strong enough to bear the journey to the Navy Yard Hospital. Among the latter was one to whom we

THE SALARIES QUESTION.

Is the editor of our contemporary the Strait Times will read the request for information sent by three of our Unofficial members to H. E. the Acting Governor, and Major-General Barker's reply thereto, printed in another column, we opine that he will agree that, whatever else it may be, it is the reverse of a "rather small" matter. The evil that men do lives after them, and the effects of Sir G. W. de Vaux's policy are not by any means forgotten as yet. The three representatives of the public—for Mr. Kewick does not appear in the matter—have returned to the charge with a catechism of plain questions respecting the Salaries question, to which they have been fortunate enough to receive a prompt and fairly satisfactory reply. That is to say it is satisfactory to know that Governor de Vaux, the "man of few words," appears to have authorised at least one deliberate mis-statement in respect to this "rather small matter," involving an expense of nearly $100,000 a year to the ratepayers. Perhaps this statement is too strong a term—our readers must judge for themselves. On the 14th April the four Unofficial members urged his Excellency to request Lord Knutsen to refrain from sanctioning the increase of salaries until he heard from them. On the 20th they asked his Excellency if he had wired, or intended doing so, as, if he would not, they would. On the 21st the Acting Colonial Secretary replied: "I am directed by his Excellency to state that he has not so telegraphed, and does not propose to do so." He departed on the 7th May, leaving the public representatives in ignorance of the fact that he had eaten his words, and had actually substantially telegraphed their message on the 25th April, leaving the "invidious duty" (to quote his pet phrase) of imparting the information, to his temporary successor.

But these little personal meannesses—this policy of suppression—need not enter into consideration, really, now that Sir G. W. de Vaux has left our shores. The tax-payers of Hongkong have gained a great point; Lord Knutsen—or the Chancellor of the Exchequer who is reputed to pull the strings of that illustrious marionette—is quailing before the storm which is less lowering in the Far East. It may be true that he does not recognise the Unofficial members' right to directly appeal to him—he does not even acknowledge the receipt of the petition which they cabled to him at their own expense—but he has ordered that the dispatches en route shall be ignored, pending further instructions. He will find that second thoughts are best. But we shall not owe our deliverance from the double impost of a heavier Military Contribution and increased official salaries to our late Governor.

SUPREME COURT.

IN CRIMINAL JURISDICTION.

(Before Sir James Russell, Chief Justice.)

May 19th.

The May Sessions opened this morning, there being seven cases for trial. The following jurors were sworn—T. Silberman, H. W. Stieve, G. de Sequeira, A. W. Miller, C. C. Corde, A. M. de Silva, and P. V. Field.

THE PIRACY CASE.
W. A. Lai and Wang Song were charged with committing piracy on a junk in British waters on the 16th ult. The Attorney General conducted the case for the crown, and said that the second prisoner would also be charged with receiving stolen property. The piracy was not of the most serious kind, but would have ranked as ordinary robbery if committed on shore.

The evidence called was substantially the same as that already given in the police court. The captain of the junk, the passenger Mok Pak, Inspector Stanton, and a constable were called. Two of the junk's crew had left the colony, and their depositions made before the magistrate were taken.

The defence was that the articles produced were the lawful property of the prisoners, and it was suggested that the prosecutors had sold their goods, lost the proceeds in gambling, and invented the story of piracy to cover their losses. There was no evidence to show this.

The jury retired to consider their verdict and after an absence of fifteen minutes returned with a verdict of guilty on the first count, by five to two, and not guilty on the second count.

His Lordship reserved judgment.

LARCENY.
Ip A. Cheuk, a servant, was charged with stealing 1,200 taels in silver and notes, the property of his master, the proprietor of the Ip Sang Nam shop, Wang Lok Street, on the 3rd April. The prisoner said he lost the money which had been given to him, by gambling. He did not steal it, and he did not return to the shop because he was afraid.

The jury unanimously found the prisoner guilty. His Lordship said the prisoner had been guilty of the worst kind of larceny. He did not seem to consider the trouble he had given his master and the shame he must have caused his brother, and breach of trust by a confidential servant must be punished. He would be sentenced to two years' imprisonment with hard labour.

(Before Mr. B. F. Achroyd, Acting Police Judge.)

ROBBERY WITH VIOLENCE.

Chan Kai, who was charged with robbing three Portuguese youths on the Lap-tee-wan Road in January last, was found guilty. Sentence was deferred.

THE STORM.

The barometer rose slightly to-day (16th inst.) after a somewhat severe thunderstorm and heavy rain at noon. The improved system of dealing with storm-water devised by Mr. Brown after the experience of May 1890 prevented a repetition of the general collapse of the roads, but accidents of other kinds were not wanting.

Yesterday afternoon during a rain squall, a cargo-boat, No. 505, was capsized when just off the Gas Works, West Point. At the time of the accident the boat was laden with 400 piculs of rice, which was in transit from Macao, and there was a crew of five men on board, the master having also his wife and four children with him. The crew of the mission launch Daylight, which was in the vicinity, witnessed the accident, and at once went to render all the help they could. They succeeded in picking up the whole of the crew, and assisted by Sergeant McDonald broke through the bottom of the capsized boat and rescued the children, but their search for the woman was unsuccessful, and so far her body has not been recovered. Had it not been for the assistance of the crew of the Daylight, there is but little doubt that more lives would have been sacrificed.

The ruins of the burnt-out buildings at No. 123, 125, Queen's Road, which had been released by the Magistrate for the purpose of pulling them down as being unsafe, fell yesterday afternoon, thus saving so much labour, though at the same time nearly ending the troubles of a few people who were passing at the time.

During the heavy rains of Thursday the retaining wall of the new slaughter house at West Point, built to hold up the hill, was washed down, and nearly the whole of it will have to be rebuilt. The hill is standing yet.

We understand that Tetim and Pokfolum reservoirs are quite full, the latter, indeed, running over.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

H.B.M. cruiser Hyacinth, Capt. Craigie, arrived from Japan on the 18th inst.

The returns of the number of visitors to the City Hall Museum for the week ending May 17th, are:—Europeans 109, Chinese 1,227; total 1,336.

A GUNPOWDER explosion occurred at Nanking Avenue the other day in which a Chinese workman was blown to bits. One more unfortunate.

The Hupao says that it has been decided by the Canton authorities to melt the old and useless cannon in the various forts and utilise the iron for the construction of new guns.

THE Amoy Times states that the redoubtable tiger-player, Mr. Leyburn, accompanied by Mr. Firth, brought down another nine foot tiger last week from the upper banks of the Dragon River.

MR. PLAYFAIR, well known in connection with the old Oriental Banking Corporation, has, we are informed, been appointed Chief Manager in Hongkong of the National Bank of China, Limited.

A BANGKOK contemporary says that H. H. Chow Sai has been despatched to enquire into the truth of a rumour that the French have occupied Koh-Samit, a small island on the east coast of the Gulf of Siam.

Messrs. J. M. LYON & Co.'s machine shops at Rochore (Singapore) were totally destroyed by fire on the night of May 9th. Estimated damages $44,000; insurance (with the Singapore Insurance Co.) $9,000. No lives lost.

OUR Shanghai morning contemporary says that Mr. Startschek from Peking has been sent to run between Shanghai and Vladivostok. She is to make one trip a month, a subsidy being granted by the Russian Government for that purpose.

It is stated by a Chinese paper that over a hundred soldiers have been stationed round about the Roman Catholic church, and the foundation asylum at Yanchow. The people are now quiet and no further trouble is apprehended.

THE eight sailors of the ship John McLeod who, after conviction, assaulted Captain Stewart of that vessel, and escaped from custody at the British Consulate, Shanghai, on the 8th inst., have been committed for trial by Mr. R. W. Mansfield, acting assistant judge.

On Sunday morning (10th inst.) the first section of the railway from Puh-shan Thung to Kep, Tonquin, was opened amid great demonstrations, by Mr. Bibbe, the Resident Superior. The Indispendance Tonkinoise mentions casually that on this occasion flocks covered the line up to 100 m. from the station.

THE Hokkai Shimbun of the 5th inst. says:—A fire broke out this morning at 11 o'clock in Hizenji-machi, and the wind being high, the fire spread in all directions, running along the Echigo-kaido, Nagaoka, and destroying 10,000 houses. The number of persons killed or wounded is not yet known.

THERE were 337 deaths registered in this colony during the month of April. Of this number only 13 belonged to the British and foreign communities—eight civilians, four soldiers, and one member of the Royal Navy. Amongst Chinese there were 77 deaths at the Tung Wo Hospital, 30 at the Italian Convent, and 38 at the Asilo de St. Eufancia.

SAYS THE Hupao—The authorities of Foochow have given strict orders to have all unburied coffins interred. After a certain date all coffins found lying above ground will be buried in the common paupers' graveyard. This is certainly an effective measure, as it is not for want of means that most families leave their coffins uninterred, but mainly because of thievery.

WE are awfully glad to note in the Government Gazette that Her Majesty has not been advised to exercise her power of disallowance with respect to the special ordinances which have whitewashed Messrs. Lai Sui Tong and Choi Wai (alias Choi Tung), into British subjects. We don't know these gentlemen, but beg to congratulate them all the same on the dignity they have attained. A seat on the Bench of Justices or the editorial chair of Chiao An is now fairly within their grasp.

THE Hupao says that the Provincial Treasurer of Soochow has drawn from the Treasury 20,000 taels for deepening and dredging the water courses in and about Soochow.

"It's getting quite dark now," remarked Oshidari as they sat in the front of the Bay View House. "Yes," he answered with a touch of scorn as he surveyed the distance between them. "One might imagine you were afraid of the dark!"

COLONEL Lo Sing Kwan, nephew of H. F. Liu Ming Chuan, and Commandant of the Forces at Kowloon, Tamsui and Twa-tsin (the capital), arrived here by the transport Smith on the 16th inst. from Tamsui. The gallant Colonel is, it is said, on a special mission to the Viceroy of the Liang Kwang.

NEWS was received at Nansanki on the 12th inst. that the Takachiko Maru, Capt. R. N. Walker, was badly ashore at Tashima, an island in the Korean Channel. The mails and treasure were saved, but it is feared that the vessel will be a total loss. She was 40 miles out of her course. No lives were lost.

THE Hongkong and Shanghai Bank shares continue steadily to decline in public appreciation, notwithstanding the powerful efforts made to stem the flowing tide. The Bank's losses during the past few months, chiefly owing to gross neglect and mismanagement, are said to be phenomenal. There will probably be some interesting revelations forthcoming at the next shareholders' meeting of this most immaculate Corporation.

THE Singapore Strait Times of May 6th says:—"The steamship Madras, Capt. Webster, arrived here from Bangkok this morning, having on board 49 salmon and deck passengers, and some two hundred head of cattle and horses. Captain Webster reports that his chief officer, Mr. J. Thomson, died of cholera yesterday morning, and was buried at sea. The vessel was at once boarded by the health officer and sent into quarantine."

THE Hon. Treasurer of the Alice Memorial Hospital begs to acknowledge with thanks the following donations to the funds of the Hospital:—H. K. & Shanghai Banking Corporation, $500; Messrs. W. L. & Co., 25; Messrs. W. L. & Co., 25; W. W. Welch & Co., 25; W. C. Barlow, Esq., 10.

LAST week the French frigate Typhon called at Keelung and remained there for five days, during which time she landed a large number of men who cleared a site and laid down a foundation for a huge monument to the memory of the French soldiers who fell in the fatal assault upon the Keelung forts during the recent Franco-China war. The cruiser Villars is expected at Keelung in the course of the next few days with the monument, which will be brought out from France by the next Messageries Maritimes steamer.

THE tea season in Kinkiang, says the Shenbao, has been opened with every promise of success. There is at present a fairly good stock of black teas, but as the cost of tea is extraordinarily high in the mountains, the market price necessarily reached a great figure. Fortunately foreign merchants are aware that the tea crop is small this year, so that they are willing to pay a good price for what tea can be got. The native dealers are not much elated, however, as the scarcity of tea does not mean heavy profit.

MR P. S. HAMEL, Consul-General for the Netherlands at Amoy and Swatow, accompanied by Mr. J. R. Heide, Secretary of Legation, paid an official visit to the Viceroy of the Two Kwangs at Canton on the 15th inst. His Excellency was not desirous of seeing Mr. Hamel, but that gentleman, whose independent example might with advantage be imitated by our British Consul officers, was neither to be brow-beaten nor neglected. He insisted on his right to an interview and, of course, Li Han-chang had to give way. We shall have to something to say regarding the object of Mr. Hamel's mission later on.

SHAO YU-LIEN, formerly Taoist at Shanghai, Judicial Commissioner, Honan, member of the Hongkong Opium Commission, Treasurer in Formosa, then Governor of Formosa, vice Liu Ming-chuan, retired earlier than expected, and will doubtless be understood in the near future. Shao has the reputation of being a clever diplomatist, and probably he deserves it. He certainly materially aided Mr. James Russell in getting his C.M.G.-ship and a smooth passage away to the Chief Justiceship of Hongkong and the accompanying knighthood. And Hongkong is no doubt grateful. What does the Chamber of Commerce say?

THE Wenchow tea season, according to a Chinese contemporary, looks very promising. The tea market first opened in the early part of the 3rd moon, the first class Wu-chien (before the 15th) was sold at about $35 to $36 per picul, and the second class from $25 to $30 per picul. The dealers, seeing that fresh tea was arriving in large quantities from the country, kept the market down by holding aloof. After the spring rains the prices dropped and there is now great activity in buying and exporting. Sing-loh ranges from $10 to $12 per picul, and Mow-tai from $20 to $23 per picul. The steamer Hatchang in her previous trip to Shanghai took away only 300 odd boxes of tea, while she takes in her present voyage about 3,600 boxes of all qualities.

On Saturday evening last the "Military Mummies" gave a second performance of "Daddy's Deeds" and the laughable farce "Catching an Heiress." There was a very large audience and the Hongkong Dramatic Club was well represented. The pieces went much more smoothly than on Thursday night, and the efforts of the performers deserved the constant applause awarded. As Adam Hardacre Mr. J. Dade again proved his suitability for "old man" parts, whilst Sergeant Tom must have been a capital cavalry officer, G. A. Meredith made his debut as Mr. Tommy, and Hackett as Carroll and Mrs. Saunders as Mrs. Hackett were all that could be desired.

THE Magazine Gap road from the Pent is reported to be in a wretched state owing to the absence of any retaining walls, and the earth from above has fallen down all over the road-way.

THE last few days have been very stormy up the Canton river, thunderstorms of great violence being accompanied by high winds. Steamboats arriving from Canton bringing many overturned sampans and junks. In one case, we hear, twenty lives were lost.

FOUR magnificent horses, which were being sent as a present from the Sultan of Turkey to the Mikado of Japan as a token of appreciation by the Sultan of the efforts made by the Japanese in regard to the Eritrean disaster, were on board the Saghalin, which passed through here recently. The horses are said to be worth some thousands of pounds.

THE Cools Emigration Commission at Singapore has just completed its report. Among other things it recommends that the Government establish inspection of employed coolies; abolish licensed depots and brokers, and establish Government depots in the Straits and China; and endeavour to obtain the sanction of China to the credit ticket system on proposed improved lines.

THE Government of the Straits Settlements have decided to present to each of the boys in the native schools in Penang, who have passed the standard, in which he was last presented for examination, a drill coat and a pair of chintz trousers, as a means, no doubt, of encouraging the boys to persevere in their studies. The schoolmaster has gone into partnership with the tailor whilst abroad it seems.

MRS. POTTER and Mr. Bellow gave an entertainment last Monday night in the spacious dining hall of the Shamien Hotel, Canton, before a moderately large but most enthusiastic audience. The programme included selections (in character) from "Macbeth" and "Hamlet" which gave the utmost satisfaction, both artists receiving numerous recalls, and the performance proved in every respect a most unqualified success.

IN our report of the last executions at Kowloon the word "Governor," through an unfortunate printer's error, was substituted for the word "former," thus putting a seriously incorrect interpretation on the words of the worthy mandarin. What we intended to convey, and what he really said, was that Admiral Fong was on the most friendly terms with the present Viceroy (Li Han-chang), whereas with the former (Chang Chi-tung) his relations were simply those of an efficient and energetic servant of the Emperor. No mention was made of the Governor, or fu-tai, with whom the Admiral is on the best of terms.

At the Magistrate's on the 15th inst., before Mr. A. G. Wise, Chan Aial, partner of the Pia Ki Aik, and Ho Yung Ming, a broker, were summoned for unlawfully and wilfully making a false declaration in respect to the river steamer Tai-fo, contrary to sec. 9, of 18 and 19 Victoria 1891, on the 6th April. Mr. Stokes, Crown Solicitor, prosecuted; Mr. Caldwell appeared on behalf of the first defendant, and Mr. Evans on behalf of the second. As the first defendant was not present, Mr. Caldwell asked for a remand. Mr. Evans thought the case to proceed, but the Magistrate thought both parties should be present. Mr. Caldwell pointed out that his client was in Canton and would be here in a day or two, and that the summons had not been personally served. His Worship thereupon remanded the case till Wednesday, and ordered that in the meantime fresh summonses should be issued.

THIS morning (15th inst.), between two or three o'clock, a school of porpoises of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, for a long time, and the crashing down on the steps, which were of course badly smashed. The debris, on examination, showed that the beams were almost entirely eaten away by white ants; which have been at work probably ever since the building was completed in 1885. The porpoise has an ordinary flat verandah roof, hardwood beams, a double layer of flat Canton tiles, with plaster ceiling. The architects, Messrs. Palmer and Turner, had commenced an inspection of the building yesterday, and noticed a slight depression in the ground which was to have been further examined today. The lofty and massive nature of the building rendered inspection difficult, but this will now be remedied by substituting a pointed roof, which can be carefully tested periodically. The verandahs of the City Hall have to be examined in this way every year, and last year were found to be almost on the point of collapsing, through the action of white ants. The main building of the Bank is not affected by this fall, and the granite columns supporting the verandah are unharmed. The damage is not considerable, and will be made good in about a fortnight.

CONSIDERING upon the recent strained relations between Sir G. W. de Vaux and the Unofficial members, the Strait Times says:—"Considerable attention has been attracted by the account which we published the other day, of the difficulties between the Governor of Hongkong and the Unofficial Members of Council there. The general opinion is that the trouble is one which might have been avoided with a little tact; but probably the Governor was suffering from the irritation which accompanies illness, and the whole question of the Military Contribution, so far as public feeling goes, here and in other parts, to the reservation that we are not the best judges of the internal affairs of another colony, the opinion is that neither side is right. It seems rather hard, because of the Military Contribution and other such matters, to attempt to take back the side in salaries which was voted to the Colony's Civil Servants. On the other hand, it is generally agreed that when the whole of the Unofficial Members of a Colony desire an urgent telegram on a financial subject to be forwarded to the Secretary of State, the Governor ought not to refuse the request (unless for the gravest reasons of State). His remedy, if he disapproves the telegram, is to attach to it his own rider expressing disapproval, and to let both go before the authorities at home. Taking another point, it is not considered here that Sir Williams de Vaux acted in a dignified fashion in calling the Unofficial members to his house, and lecturing them upon their demerits, towards him. The Governor of a colony ought to be too considerate a person to engage in such a proceeding, and it is assumed that probably Sir Williams de Vaux would not have engaged in it, but for the irritation and disturbance of his health which naturally accompanied a severe illness. The whole matter is at once rather small and rather painful."

THE weekly competition of the Hongkong Rifle Association was held on Saturday last, for the Short Range Handicap Challenge Cup and Range Spoon. There were only eight competitors, the bad weather doubtless keeping others away. The cup and 600 yards spoon were won by Col. Sergt. Mack, of the 1st A. & S. Highlanders, Mr. J. Anderson winning the 500 yards spoon, with the following scores:—

	500 yds.	600 yds.	1000 yds.	Total
Col. Sergt. Mack	10	10	10	30
Sergt. A. Mann, R.K.P.	10	10	10	30

It is understood that his Excellency Liu Ming Chuan, Governor of Formosa, will not hand over the seal of office to the Fantai, his temporary successor, until the end of June next. He will take passage to Nanking in the Smith, which will be escorted by the Cass and several Chinese gun-boats as far as the ancient capital. Upon arrival at Nanking he will interview the Viceroy of the Liang Kwang and proceed thence, directly, to Peking, where he will have audience. It is said of the Emperor—the latter being desirous of seeing with his own eyes, the Governor who succeeded in slaughtering such large numbers of "rebellious barbarians" and saving (he) "his island province."

On the 6th inst. the Shanghai Marconi's Chefoo correspondent writes:—"There was another fire in the native town on the 3rd inst., which would probably have consumed the whole place had there been any wind blowing at the time; but as it was, the flames were stayed before they had done much injury. The fire originated in a cotton redown and the damage is estimated at £1,500. On Monday we had a heavy storm of dust driven down from the plains and Mongolia, which was so severe that landing and shipping had to be suspended the entire day, work being impossible under the clouds of blinding dust. The cruisers Ping-yun and Chiyun left here yesterday, and the other vessels of the Peiyung squadron have left Wei-hai-wei for the usual target practice at Tai-len-wan."

A CHINAMAN at Amoy, who for some four or five years past has been in the habit of visiting a rich Chinese widow in Amoy, was taken somewhat by surprise at two o'clock the other morning, according to the Times. It seems that the relatives of the charming widow having heard of what was going on, and bent upon putting a stop to the scandal, visited her residence, and there discovered the lover. He was immediately seized, his hands tied behind his back, and both his ears and queue were cut off. This punishment, not being thought sufficient, the widow's relatives, to the number of about twenty, paraded the culprit through the principal streets of Amoy for two or three days. So far as we can learn nothing was done to the woman. In addition to encouraging the visits of her lover, she had given him three times to time something between two and three thousand dollars in money.

THE Tientsin correspondent of our Shanghai morning contemporary writes under date the 6th inst.:—"Two feet of high water on Taku har. Such was the Harbour Master's record on Monday, during a severe N.W. gale and dust storm. No steamers could be seen from the shore although there was quite a fleet at anchor outside the har. The river seems to be decidedly deteriorating again, and steamers of over 100 feet can only scrape through some of the reaches near Tientsin. The Hatling has been there full days going down from Tientsin to Taku. The water on the plain is going down fast, and the coarse grass is showing through what is left, so the neighbouring country begins to look bright again. When the land is above water there is promise of a fine crop first of wheat, and then of kaoliang. The United States Minister to Korea, Mr. Heard, and family, have come over on a visit to the German Minister at Peking. The secret mission from Korea to Li Hung-chang has returned home re infecta."

SINCE the new Gambling Ordinance came into operation the fortunes of the Chinese gambling houses have pat-kau and pat-lau are played, are on the wane. Indeed we are informed that there is not now a gambling house in the East, and the Central district is becoming empty. Not to be behind his colleagues, Inspector Mackie, who looks after the Western district, bids fair to make that portion of the city as law-abiding as the rest. This morning (6th inst.), at the Police Court, before Mr. A. G. Wise, he filled the court room with no less than two score of Chinese, whom he arrested last night in a gambling house in High Street. After the whole of the defendants had been arranged in proper order, which was about as easy as leading a flock of sheep to the slaughter, the details of the charge were given. The usual tables, chairs, cards and dominoes were produced, as also the fabulous amount of fifty-eight cents and forty-eight cash. The charge being proved, they were individually asked what they had to say in their defence, when almost every one pleaded that they went there to look for their friends. The master was fined $25, or a month's imprisonment; three boys who were only 17 years of age, were ordered to receive half-a-dozen strokes each, and the rest were fined $5 apiece, with the alternative of fourteen days' imprisonment. They all went to Gaol, being unable to pay their fines, at which rate the "Hermitage" will get pretty crowded soon if Mackie isn't assassinated.

THE Hankow correspondent of the N. C. Daily News writes on the 6th inst.:—"Teas from all the districts yet shown are exceptionally good compared with those of late seasons, and though the Chinese report that the late arrivals will show the taint of rainy weather, I, for one, would take this with a grain of salt. Prices are absurdly high and quite out of the question for England, for which market I know of no business done as yet."

A DARING robbery was committed last night (14th inst.) by two armed men in Jubilee Street. About half-past eight a money changer was sitting behind his counter, which stood in front of a campradore's shop, when the two men came up, one armed with a couple of knives and the other with a like number of revolvers. One covering the money changer, the other abstracted $120 from the drawer and then they made a dash. An alarm was raised, and one of them, Li Leung, was captured before he had got far away, the other making good his escape. This morning the prisoner was formally charged, and the case was remanded by Mr. Wise for a week.

THE following telegram, received from Mr. Bibby, mining manager, Raub, is published in the Strait Times paper of the 6th inst.:—"Rough cleaning up of battery yielded 403 ounces of amalgam, probably yield 170 ounces gold. Estimated quantity of stone crushed for above 420 tons. Prospects poor." That is the result of one month's crushing. On 11th April the manager got 970 ounces amalgam (estimated at 400 ounces of gold) for 400 tons stone. The first completed crushing gave 867 ounces gold for 350 tons stone. The second gave 757 ounces gold for 490 tons. The third, now in progress, is likely to show a very much smaller average of gold. At present it stands at about 570 ounces (estimated) gold for 820 tons stone.

On the 6th inst. an insulte occurred in the new gaol, Bangkok. Twelve prisoners employed as cooks concealed choppers and other weapons, and whilst exercising suddenly attacked the guards. A severe struggle took place, during which two of the warders were killed, and eleven of the ruffians secured, one having made his escape during the mélée. Mr. Allen, superintendent of the prison, received a very severe wound in the hand from a blow with one of the choppers. All of the mutineers were covered with wounds from the severe handling they received at the hands of the prison officials. They managed to break down two partitions, and get away to the jungle, however, but the police recaptured all but one. They are to be flogged, and then lose their ears.

LAST winter, says the Shenbao, Tientsin was much agitated by anonymous placards, stating that a date had been set for burning foreign dwellings and massacring foreigners. The writer of these placards could not be found. Luckily some stores were being black-mailed by means of letters bearing the seal of the Imperial Military Academy. A strict investigation discovered that there were five men implicated. On examination four out of the five prisoners confessed that they were duped by an Anhai man named Chang Shu-shan, who forged the seal and wrote the letters, while they only undertook to distribute them to the shopkeepers and stores and to demand black-mail. Chang acknowledged his guilt and further admitted that he was the author of the anonymous placards which produced so much apprehension last winter. His case was reported to Viceroy Li, who ordered him to be summarily executed on the 25th April.

THE Newchwang correspondent of the Shanghai morning paper writes on the 6th inst.:—"We are having the most changeable weather—one day fine and quite warm, and the next so cold that fires are required. Yesterday the thermometer showed only 7 or 8 degrees above zero, and the wind was blowing freshly from the north. To-day a south wind makes the temperature quite pleasant. Our Consul (Mr. Wren) is waiting for his successor, when he will depart for Canton to replace Mr. C. Alabaster, who no doubt is anxious to leave before the hot weather sets in. Large quantities of produce arrive daily from the interior, and shipments have been made on a big scale. Imports are also considerable, and there is every appearance of the Customs returns being quite as favourable if not better even than last year. In fact the port is prosperous, and if railways are made the province will be a most remunerative one for the Empire."

FOUR old Malays! A correspondent of the Singapore Free Press, who has visited the island of Timian, which is about 120 miles from Singapore on the East Coast of the Malay Peninsula, 14 hours' steaming from Singapore, says:—"We dropped anchor opposite the 'palace' of his late Majesty the King of the Sedangs, and presently found ourselves ashore, with all our baggage. A party of natives were on the beach to welcome us, headed by the son of the late King, as he is called, 'the cuss' as it has ever been my lot to meet during an eight years' sojourn in many parts of the East. However, we got a little assistance from the natives and our luggage was carried up to the palace, which being made of lattice work, was more suggestive of a birdcage than a royal dwelling. I must thank his late Majesty for leaving one or two things on the island, a good stove, a few chairs, and his residence. The building is on the slope of a hill planted with lime, sago-palms, and mangrove trees, a pretty brook running just at the back. Rooms about as retirement (ill) 'consult' should cease from troubling, and his kingdom be at rest." Intended to make something of Timian, for lines for cooies and a spacious store-house are to be seen. We accepted without scruple the courteous hospitality that the genial monarch would have proffered us had he been in the flesh.

THE correspondent who sends us what he terms a "Memo" of certain proceedings in connection with the Bellios Scholarship Fund, ought to know that it is a rule with all newspapers to practically ignore communications that are not properly authenticated. The writer of this "Memo" has not favored us with his name, and, so far as the Hongkong Telegraph is concerned, his three-quarters-of-a-column of sickening advertisement of Mr. E. R. Bellios, Mr. J. J. Francis, Q.C., and the Han, (H. N. G. Mitchell-Innes) has been carefully consigned to the waste-paper basket. We are quite sure that the readers of this journal have no interest in the result of the examinations of Tsung Chung-ll, Wong Ping-ut, etc., and we are willing to make an affidavit that the fact that T. Cock has gained the fifth prize of $15 at the Diocesan School and that Miss Wong A. Ling has walked away with a silver medal and $25 at the Victoria Home and Orphanage School won't make a cent difference in the business on the Rialto to-morrow. We are glad that Mr. Bellios has established another Trust Fund, promoting medical studies, training school teachers, etc.; but we think it would have been in better taste had his generosity not been made public in such bare-faced fashion, and moreover, we think money would have been better spent had it been applied to the relief of the water-spout destination which exists almost everywhere in the colony. Education is the business of the Government, and all civilized countries; in Hongkong it is only too frequently made a medium for gratuitous advertising by a set of scheming 'brainers' who ought to know better.

had nothing whatever to do with them, and their brutal and cowardly attack upon him and the first instance was caused by simple hatred of foreigners. He was leaving the workshop after his day's duties were finished, when he was set upon by a number of Cantonese apprentices and pushed roughly about and assailed with the usual coarse epithets that Chinese roughs know so well how to use in such cases. He managed to free himself from the mob, and it is admitted that in doing so he pushed one of his assailants out of his way, as any man would do under the circumstances, in mere self-defence. As usual in such cases the Chinese roughs made the most of this fact, and one of their number shammed illness, in consequence, as he and his fellow-roughs alleged, of the push which he had received. But upon being carefully examined by Dr. Bamber no traces or mark of any hurt whatever could be found upon him. An investigation was held next day into the trouble at the Directors' office, and it was when learning the premises in which the enquiry had been held that the second and more serious attack was made upon Mr. Burns. Between three and four hundred of the Cantonese workmen employed at the mines set upon him outside the Directors' office and beat him in the most merciless and brutal manner with pit-poles and whatever improvised weapons they could lay hands upon. It was a case of one man against several hundred, and there was no hope for him of successfully resisting his assailants. He was soon a mass of cuts and bruises and there is every reason to believe that had not an engine driven by a Kaping man, with whose people the Cantonese are also at enmity, come along and scattered the crowd the foreman would have been barbarously murdered under the very noses of the Directors of the railway, who showed no disposition, either through fear or disinclination, to interfere with their murderous fellow-provincials. After the unfortunate foreman had managed to catch hold of the hand-rail of the locomotive, which despite the shower of stones from all sides, he clung to as it was slowly driven away out of range, Mr. Burns was eventually dragged upon the locomotive by the engineer-driver, to whose pluck he owes his life. Dr. Bamber at the junction met the engine, which proceeded directly to Tientsin. The injuries which Mr. Burns received were of a most serious character, and it is feared that the shock will leave him unable to work for some time. So serious became the hostility of the Cantonese to the railway and at the mine, that Foreign overseers, drivers and guards, some twelve or fourteen in number, immediately held a meeting, and decided to leave Tongshan and Kaping and go to Tientsin until redress was obtained for this scandalous outrage, the ring-leaders of which they desired to have punished. After many delays and attempts to compromise matters the Directors informed the Foreigners in Tientsin that the men had been arrested and brought them to return to work. The Foreigners, transported on the return of some of the Foreign employees that such was not the case, and they were mobbed and insulted as soon as they set foot again amongst the Cantonese. So threatening was the demeanour of these gentry and so powerless did the Directors seem to be to control the fierce tide of hostility towards the Foreigners, that seven of the latter at once decided to go Tientsin, and said they could not continue to work unless they got protection against the lawless and infuriated Cantonese, who openly expressed their intention of driving every Foreigner away from the place. After much negotiation the Directors concluded that it would be wiser not to risk further trouble and they paid the seven English miners and railway employees to the end of their agreements, some three or four months' salary, and their passage-money home. Mr. Burns, who is still suffering severely from the effects of the outrage, claimed 18 months' salary and put forward his claim upon him before the British Consul, Mr. Byron Bressan, a course which does not appear to have assisted him very much. In the end he had to accept three months' pay, which is but poor compensation for the injuries he sustained and the treatment he received after four years' services to the new railway. The Consul, we are informed, utterly declined to take any steps to secure the punishment of the assailants of his national, alleging his powerlessness to do anything unless he had "twenty British men-of-war in the Peking" to support his demands. The whole matter was laid before the Viceroy, who also seems unable to control the Cantonese in his province, of which in the Mining and Railway districts at least they have taken charge. But we trust the matter will be taken up in more influential quarters, for such outrages upon British subjects in Chinese employ, whose position is rapidly becoming untenable, must be paid for heavily. The question calls for vigorous action and we would most strongly urge that it should not be overlooked by those responsible for the protection of foreigners in China. The railway is being rapidly pushed on to Shan-hai-kwan, and the foreign employees are being engaged, upon all who contemplate going to the Chinese railway and mining region we would also impress the necessity of getting assurances that they will be protected against the violence of the Cantonese on their arrival. If nothing is done to obtain satisfaction for this outrage, their lives will not be worth much more than the cry in the North is "Chihli for the Cantonese."—Shanghai Mercury.

THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF THE CZAREWITZ.

The following details of the attempt on the life of the Czarowitch are given in the Japan Herald of the 18th inst.—
One of those dastardly attacks, for which Japan unfortunately possesses an unhappy preeminence, was made yesterday, which placed in jeopardy the life of the heir to the crown of the Russian Empire. It was known that H. I. H. Prince George, who was to visit the neighbourhood of Lake Biwa, and yesterday afternoon news reached Tokyo, that he had been set upon by one of the Police. The information did not reach Yokohama until the evening, and this morning we issued two express, the first merely stating the fact that the Prince had been wounded, and the second containing further particulars, with the welcome intelligence that the wound was only a slight one. More detailed information has since arrived, and it may be well to give the occurrence of the day in its own words.
H. I. H. the Czarowitch left Kyoto yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, in Imperial, in company with Prince George of Greece, his wife, and a number of Japanese officials, for the purpose of inspecting the various objects of interest in the neighbourhood of Otsu. After visiting the different scenes, H. I. H. had lunch at the Shiga Kancho, which he left shortly before 3 p.m., on his return. Whilst proceeding through Kikuchi in Otsu, about 6 or 7 miles from the Kancho, a person stationed on the right hand side of the road, suddenly drew his sword, and making a blow at H. I. H. cut him through his hat, inflicting two wounds extending from the side to the front of his forehead. They are believed to have been inflicted by a single blow. H. I. H. was immediately taken into a small shop by the roadside, where the bleeding was stopped, and temporary bandages were applied. What happened after the attack is not exactly clear. The earlier telegrams said that the would-be assassin was cut down by a police inspector, but this was an error. Later despatches say that the man was knocked down with a stick either by Prince George of Greece, or some other officer of the Czarowitch's suite, the accounts as to this differ, and dropped his sword, which was immediately seized by one of the Imperial coolies, who inflicted a heavy wound in the back, and the man was then secured. After this, H. I. H. returned to the Kancho, where he remained quietly and in the meantime physicians from Osaka and Kyoto were summoned to attend him. When sufficiently restored, he took the train from Baba to Kyoto, and arrived at the hotel at 5.15 p.m. A medical examination was immediately made, and it was found that the blow had not injured the frontal bone, but were slight cuts, one of nine, and the other of seven centimetres in length. H. I. H. was said to be in very good spirits, and had conversed freely with his suite.

Meanwhile the news had reached Tokyo, some half-hour after the attack, and all was stern, as it was not thought possible that the victim of a blow from a sword could have escaped so easily, and it was feared that the wounds were, at least, dangerous. Both the Emperor and Empress were much affected, and expressed their deepest regrets. Under instructions from H. I. Majesty, H. I. H. Kito Shikawa-no-Miya left on a message of condolence, accompanied by several of the Court Physicians in a special train at 4.30 p.m., and at 6.30 p.m. another special train left conveying Count Saigo, Minister for Home Affairs, Viscount Aoki, Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Director and Vice Director of the Police Bureau, and Drs. Hashimoto, Baels and Scriba, whilst still further to show his sympathy with his guest, His Majesty himself left in a special train for Kyoto at 6.30 this morning. Previous to the departure of the Ministers, however, a Cabinet Council had been held, the result of which was that the following receipt had been handed by the Emperor to Count Matsukata:—

IMPERIAL RECEIPT.

It is with the most profound grief and regret that, while We, with Our Government and Our Subjects, have been preparing to welcome His Imperial Highness, Our beloved and respected Crown Prince of Russia, with all the honours and hospitalities due to Our national guest, we are informed of the unexpected and surprising announcement that His Imperial Highness met with a deplorable accident at Otsu whilst on his journey. It is Our will that whilst he shall take his speedy course to the distant abode, to the end that Our mind may be relieved, and that Our friendly and intimate relations with Our good neighbor may be secured against disturbance.

At the same time special instructions were issued from Count Saigo, giving orders to the local authorities, to exert greater care in the guarding of the Czarowitch, in accordance with the Imperial will, as His Majesty was especially concerned at the accident made upon him by an offender at Otsu, and that strict police watch should be kept, not only at the places of his stoppage, but also during his journeys. Counts Goto and Yamada, Viscounts Aoki and Kabayama and Mr. Mutsu all called at the Russian Legation yesterday to express their regret at the attack. A message has also been sent to the Nagoya Gendarmes station to send fifty gendarmes to Kyoto as a special guard.

These are all the facts known up to the present time, of this most lamentable occurrence, of which it is difficult to divine the cause. We all know that there is a strong Nihilistic feeling in Japan, and in Russia especially, against the Imperial family, and it was also told that special precautions were taken by the English officials in India for the safety of the Czarowitch during his journey there, but it seemed almost impossible to imagine that any hatred to the Russian Imperial family could have existed in Japan. Besides which, whatever may be the particular faults of Russia's internal policy, and to most persons' ideas they are neither small nor few, for these Heir to the throne are as gentle as a lamb, and as a resident in Japan we have never yet heard his Majesty engaged in interfering in political questions, and he certainly cannot be blamed for the type of government enforced by the present Ruler of Russia, even although that autocrat be his father. We do not, however, look upon the recent attempted assassination as the result of Nihilistic plots or tendencies. The Government official telegrams repeat again and again that the man was a lunatic, but we cannot believe this. Had the man been insane, his committal to the hospital would have been made, and he would not have been employed. Even the statement in the official telegram that, upon being interrogated after the occurrence, he expressed deep regret at his heinous crime, tells against the Government view. A man does not suddenly lose his senses in a moment, and as suddenly regain them. The mere idea is repugnant to common sense. If we substitute fanatic for lunatic we are probably nearer the truth. There is no doubt a settled hatred of foreigners amongst a certain class of the native population, which is continually showing itself. We are told by the organ of the Japanese Government that the English are the nation most detested, but it seems to us that the Japanese is tolerably impartial in his hatred of foreigners, and that all suffer in turn. The residents of the neighbourhood of Kyoto and Osaka seem to be peculiarly imbued with this spirit of fanaticism, and no rank avers them, since the attack on Sir Harry Parkes at Kyoto, the outrage, eleven years ago, against Heinrich, and the occurrence of yesterday. Besides this, it must be remembered that natives who have followed the career of Russia in Asia, have a sort of instinctive dread of that Power, and the cessation of Saghalien to her, although in exchange for the Kurile Islands, rather augmented than diminished that feeling. When the native ferocity of temper, and this hatred of foreigners in general, and of Russians in particular, we add the fact that many Japanese detect the honour shown to foreign princes, thinking that their own Emperor is superior to all, we find quite enough to account for the sudden attempt to murder, without seeking for a supposititious insanity.

The occurrence is, however, a lamentable one for Japan, and coming so soon after the attack at the Russian Legation, wears a somewhat ominous look. Even if Russia be disposed to accept the explanations made, in general estimation Japan will suffer, and retarding blow has been struck at the Japanese cause. The continued murders and attempted murders of Japanese Ministers; these ever-recurring attacks on foreigners, will do more to support the protest of the foreign residents against being placed under Japanese jurisdiction, because it shows to what a very slight extent the vaunted civility of Russia has penetrated the native mind. Viz-She Russia, all that can be done has been done to atone for the attack on the life of the Czarowitch, the immediate despatch of an Imperial Prince, the despatch of the Ministers, and finally the hurried journey of the Emperor to the scene, all prove the desire of the Sovereign of Japan to repair, as far as may be in his power, the mischief done. But in regard to Japanese pretensions in the face of the world, they have received a setback from which they will not easily recover, and at this moment Europe and America are, no doubt, discussing this latest outbreak of Japanese ferocity or fanaticism, and it is to be hoped that the only thing upon which Japan can congratulate herself, is the very fortunate salvation of the life of the Czarowitch from the attack of a dastardly assassin.

Mr. Reding, Consul for Russia at Shanghai, received a telegram from the Russian Legation at Tokyo on Friday last, stating that His Imperial Highness is rapidly recovering from his wound, on board the Pamiat Azova, at Kobe.

WRECK OF THE STEAMER "ALBANY."

News of the wreck of the British steamer Albany, Captain Hood, was received here late on Saturday evening last, by Messrs. Doddwell, Carrillo & Co., from Shanghai. The Albany was a steamer of 2,000 tons carrying capacity, and was built at Leith. Her owners are Messrs. John Warrick & Co. She was to leave Nagasaki on Saturday forenoon for Shanghai, where she would take in a quantity of cargo for New York and then come on here to fill up. But very little space had been reserved for Hongkong and Shanghai cargo, so it is probable that if the steamer has foundered she has gone down with a large and valuable cargo consisting chiefly of tea and rice. The agents here have not yet been advised as to the cause of the disaster or when it happened, but it is supposed that it may have occurred in the neighbourhood of the Goto Islands, some 70 miles to the southward of Nagasaki Heads, during a dense fog; the ship having probably been set to the northward of her course by the strong currents prevailing at times on the coast of Japan. As to whether any, or all of the crew of the ill-fated steamer have perished, is not yet known, but it is improbable that there were any passengers on board at the time, the vessel being a cargo carrier only.

ANTI-FOREIGN OUTBREAK AT WUHU.

A serious attack on the foreign residents at Wuhu occurred last week. A correspondent of the N. C. Daily News gives the following details:—

For several days past rumours have been floating about that a mob had determined to loot and fire the property belonging to the Jesuit Fathers here, the reason for this being that a number of Chinese children had been seized and killed, and their eyes taken out to make medicine for the fathers. Very little notice was taken of these threats by the foreigners, but on Tuesday we found that our confidence was misplaced. Soon after noon of that day crowds began to collect round the premises occupied by the Fathers, and at about 4 p.m. they broke through the walls, burst open the doors, drove the Fathers out, and commenced looting and destroying everything they could find. They then set fire to the house in which the Fathers lived, and which was a splendid building only finished a few months since, the cathedral, hospital, and all other buildings in the compound. They next proceeded to the English Consulate, and began to throw stones through the windows, and to destroy the flowers and other properties in the garden, and it was only the timely arrival of the Taotai with some men, and the coolness of the Consul, (Mr. Collin Ford) that saved this fine building from being set on fire. Hundreds of savage natives were yelling and howling round the place, and the Consul and his wife had to disguise themselves in Chinese clothes in order to escape from their fury.

At 8 o'clock all the foreigners succeeded in getting to the Custom House, which is on the bank of the river. The ladies and children were sent on to the China Navigation Company's receiving ship, the Consul and a number of foreigners going off also for their protection. The other foreigners fully armed remained at the Custom House, as word was brought in that the mob intended to burn it down and all the surrounding buildings, which are occupied by members of the Customs staff, and owned by the Jesuits. Twice during the night these houses were looted and set on fire, and it was only the prompt steps taken by the Commissioner (Mr. Woodruff) and his staff, assisted by the Taotai who behaved very well, that saved the whole of this property from being burnt.

On Wednesday morning things were more quiet, and men, women, and children employed themselves in carrying away from the houses of the Fathers and the Customs offices anything they could find, that had not been looted or destroyed. By 10 o'clock an immense crowd had again collected behind the Custom House, and the surrounding buildings were again fired. The members of the Customs staff fully armed charged the crowd again and again, put out these fires, and by their determination and pluck succeeded in keeping the hands of men at bay. At 3 p.m. we were delighted by the arrival of three Chinese gunboats; these were anchored between the receiving-ships and the shore, and at once began to fire off blank cartridges, and it was very amusing to see the mob flying as though showers of grape were falling amongst them.

Some 200 soldiers have turned up this morning from Taiiping Fu, so for the time being we feel again safe. Great praise is due to Mr. Woodruff and his staff for the determined way in which they protected the Custom House, their action being that a man armed with rifle and loaded with pluck was able to stand up to a big Chinese mob. No rifle was fired, but a few touches of the bayonet, and a prick or two from a sword, showed these people that the foreigners were not to be trifled with. There is no doubt but that the arrival of the gunboats last night saved the place from being looted and fired, as it was ascertained from most reliable sources that the mob was only waiting for night to make a raid on the property owned by the Jesuits, and where it would have ended we can tell. During the time the cathedral was being fired, men well dressed in silks and satins were seen to be directing the crowd, and it seems a pity that these, and not a few wretched coolies, have not been arrested. This sudden outbreak should, I think, again teach a lesson to those interested, I mean the unprotected state of the river ports, and I trust the Admiral of the station will see his way to at once send a gunboat to be stationed between Chinkiang and this port. A man-of-war was telegraphed for on Tuesday night, but none has yet arrived.

Several complaints are being made as to the action of the clerks in the Chinese telegraph office at this time. Messages were sent to the office on Tuesday night for transmission, by the Consul, and some of the shipping agents, but the operator refused to send them until he had himself wired to the head office in Shanghai, asking for permission to do so.

Some days ago two Chinese women lost their sons and it was stated that they had been kidnapped by the Jesuits. The women went to the Roman Catholic Mission and asked for their children. Of course, they were not there, but the women commenced to lament and a crowd collected and things got so serious that the Taotai was appealed to, and the crowd was dispersed. On Tuesday morning news arrived of the attack on the Roman Catholic Mission at Yangchow, and in the afternoon, the two women who had lost their children again went to the Mission and knocking their heads on the ground loudly bewailed their fate. This caused a crowd to congregate, and talking the matter over among themselves, they came to the conclusion that the priests had made away with the children, and as evidence of the fact they averred that there were a number of coffins on the premises. The coffin were there, but they were intended for members of the Mission who died at Wuhu. Some time ago two Chinese Sisters or nuns had been at Wuhu, and they used to talk to the children of Wuhu, perhaps put their hands on their heads, when speaking to them. So the natives said these nuns were capable of striking dead and dumb those they touched. All this the crowd talked about and were finally worked up to such a pitch, that they made an attack on the Roman Catholic premises and as they came in at the front the priests escaped by the back. The mob set fire to the place, pouring oil on the woodwork to make it burn better. The rioters dug up some graves on the premises and broke open the coffins. The report that an old woman and two children were burnt to death fortunately turns out to be incorrect, as the missing woman has since arrived at Shanghai.

The Chinese men-of-war which arrived at 3 p.m. on Wednesday were on their way up the river escorting H.E. Shen Ping-cheng, Governor of Anhui, the late acting Viceroy at Nanking, who left here last week, and had no knowledge of the riot at Wuhu till they arrived there. They checked the waves of the mob, and the Consul had been on board, shifted their berths and moored inside the hulks so as to be able to get at the mob if necessary. Before they had arrived, some fifteen of the rioters had been arrested and tied up, but H.E. suggested to the Taotai that he should release them, for if he wanted them again, he could always find them. At 5 p.m. the men-of-war fired blank cartridge and soon after it began to rain and the mob commenced to melt away.

By 7 p.m. the mob was quieter, and during the night the soldiers were firing blank cartridge to scare the people away. At 9.30 a.m. on Thursday there was a small fire but it was soon put out. The Yuenwu arrived, having made a smart run down from Kikiang in response to a telegram, and at 6 a.m. the Tehking left for Shanghai and the Yuenwu left at noon.

The mob went systematically to work and pulled down the buildings as if they were paid for the job. They carefully took the hinges off the doors and windows, using screwdrivers, so that they might be sold or used again, and took away in boats all they could carry. Before the houses were fired a man dressed in silks, with a fan in one hand and a red flag in the other, directed the mob where they were to work.

On the morning of Wednesday, when the second riot occurred, the rioters encouraged each other with cries of Ha, ha, and then proceeded to the N. C. Mission. They could be seen streaming into the compound like swarms of ants, and their numbers were estimated at 10,000. The mob did not make any demonstrations against the Methodist Episcopal (American) Mission, which is some distance from the Roman Catholic premises, but the British Consul told the missionaries that he would not take any responsibility in the event of further trouble, so they came away in the Tehking, but Mr. Whalley remained behind, living on the bank with the other ladies. Two of the ladies who came down in the steamer lost everything they had, and only escaped in what they stood upright in.

The Tehking arrived at Wuhu at 6 a.m. on Wednesday and was soon afterwards informed of the riot. She went alongside the Li-hai, where they found the ladies and children of Wuhu on board, this hulk having been selected as it is an iron one and could not be so easily destroyed as the wooden ones. They were all taken on board the Tehking and Captain Cain and his officers and engineers did all they could to make them comfortable, and brought them on to Shanghai. At Chinkiang they picked up the priest who had escaped from Wuhu in a boat and had been seen by the Yifu. They arrived at Chinkiang an hour before the Tehking. While the mob was demolishing the Cathedral, Captain Cain went on shore and walked up to the place, but was not molested, although he stayed some time looking on at the work of destruction.

The French man-of-war Constantin was nine miles below Chinkiang on Thursday at 6 p.m., and H.M.S. Linnet having been found by the tugboat sent to look for her, got back to Woosung soon after noon on Friday. She was detained for a pilot, but Mr. Flood went down to her in the afternoon and she then proceeded to Wuhu. The report that Mr. Ford, the British Consul, was wounded, seems to have been a mistake.

The Mercury says that the refugees were:—Mrs. Collin Ford, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Kapp, Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff and a children, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and a children, Mr. Russell and a children, Mrs. and Master Harrow, and three Catholic priests from Chinkiang. At Chinkiang the Tehking was stopped and searched by the Commissioner of Customs, the Police and the English Consul, for the rioters of the Wuhu rioters, who was supposed to have secreted himself on board, but the search proved fruitless. Those who lost most in the disturbance were Mr. and Mrs. Russell, whose house was completely wrecked, their property being destroyed in the most wanton manner, and stolen, but tossed out of the window and deliberately destroyed. The fine Catholic Cathedral is a blackened and unrecognizable heap of ruins; it was torn down, it is said, by the rioters in order to exhume the bodies of two native children, whom the ruffians alleged the priests had murdered and buried there.

CANTON.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

May 18th.—The Netherlands Consul from Amoy is here engaged in diplomatic negotiation with His Excellency the Viceroy in regard to Swatow matters, which place is 'likewise within' the Consular jurisdiction. It is quite refreshing in these days of Consular immobility or 'powerlessness' to come across an official courteous and gentlemanly, and one who does not hesitate to claim Treaty rights for his nation and to compel their recognition by the authorities. 'Conciliatory, but firm,' was a wise motto practised by Eastern diplomats, but alas! it has long been a dead letter so far as British interests in China are concerned.

I have chronicled once or twice the progress the Canton Electric Light Company has made. Like all companies started in China, on irregular methods, it has had to experience its initial difficulties of a more or less acute nature, especially in the matter of location for a local prejudice or opposition, but it has enjoyed singular good fortune, in this respect, and within the next three months will make a practical show, second—none even to Hongkong, in illuminating this ancient city. I know how, to chronicle a new departure by this Company, the important branch of science they are developing, viz., the Electric Light, as applied as a propelling agency to launch a 23 feet in length and 4 feet broad motor on experimental trip on the river, and moved a success in every way so far as the explication of the principle was concerned. It is also deserving of note that this was the first launch propelled entirely by electricity which has ever been seen, I believe, in the Far East. The whole of the machinery, which will go within a keel-side oil case, was designed and manufactured in Canton by Mr. G. A. Wise, the able and energetic superintendent of the Canton Electric Light Company. The motor was of H.P. norm, weighing 210 lbs. only, but to test the strength of the motor, the boat was fully laden with 200 lbs. of batteries weighing 1050 lbs. These accumulators were made by the Pacific Electrical Storage Company of San Francisco. The launch had on board 3 persons, bringing up its weight to about 2,000 lbs., and although only able to work at half speed on account of the newness of the machinery, she was driven at about 14 knots an hour through the water. In fact, considering the size of the launch, the smaller dimensions of the river, and the use, but fitted with a set of the latest system of primary batteries, weighing only 250 lbs. in all and holding solution for 24 hours' continuous working, and it is expected a speed of at least 9 knots will be attained. The important consequences, in the near future, of the development of this principle as a motive power is apparent at a glance—no noise, no smoke, no inconvenience, everything within a small compass of but a few square feet, and working as easily as putting the hands of a clock forward or backward as the vessel is required to go ahead or astern. Its cheapness in comparison with steam engine and boiler power likewise bears a significant ratio.

The thunder storm of yesterday did not pass off without sundry fatal mishaps. No less than four large junks in the river were capsized and numbers drowned, also sundry houses in the city are reported to have collapsed. An unfortunate man attempting to gain shore at the Customs shed is reported to have been struck by lightning and killed within a few inches of that energetic Customs official Mr. "Intimidation." Left in fact the shock was so great as to make the prefix of the first letter in the alphabet a probable necessity in describing this able officer's possible abode shortly.

The celebrated specialists in eye and ear complaints—Dr. Engler and Mr. Abrahamson, have been well patronized during their sojourn here by the high authorities, as well as the large community of Canton. They have also done a considerable amount of good work in a benevolent spirit amongst the poorer sections of the community, who certainly flock in considerable numbers to benefit by the skill of these gentlemen, and depart with evidence of gratitude for the relief they experience. I have always considered China, more especially the north, a grand field for specialists in this particular branch of medical science, and I am more than ever convinced by recent experience that my opinion on this point is sound.

SHANGHAI.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

5th May, 1891.
I hear from Hankow that the reception of the Russian Prince by the Chinese Officials was not altogether satisfactory. And indeed the fact that they were not received in the Viceroy's Palace at Wu-chang is in itself suspicious. The Office of Works at Han-yang, where the iron and steel furnaces are being erected, may be a nice place in which to receive native Officials who have never seen such things, but hardly the place in which to receive Foreign Princes who wish to see China as she really is on ordinary occasions. Again, Prince George appears to have been met by a person of no great consequence, if what I hear is true, that he was carried in a green chair with four bearers, the same as an ordinary Chinese Taotai or Foreign Consul uses;—it is no doubt the same old story. China is the first nation on earth! China has no equals in point of size, population and political importance; all other nations are her vassals and are expected to bring her tribute of some kind. No doubt but the Chinese historians will soon be bothering their heads as to the nature of the tribute the Russian Princes to the empire they visited. However, the fact that they condescended to pay a Viceroy, instead of the Emperor, a visit, is so much in favour of the assertion that they are tributaries, because Chinese Viceroy's have no equals amongst ordinary mortals. They are always considered at least one grade or degree higher than anybody who calls upon them. It is true that in going to see Viceroy Chang Chih-tung they went to the very tip-top of the Viceroy's class, to a man not better different from one day descending to the Throne of China and to Imperial honours, hence the homage paid him by the Russian Princes.

From Nanking I hear that many changes are likely to take place in the Government of that Province. The Admiral Wu, of the Nai Yang squadron, has already been deprived of his post. The Taotai of Shanghai is now trembling in his shoes for fear of being sent to leave the important functions appertaining to his rank, in the distant province of Kiang or elsewhere in Western China. The Chief Director of the Kiang-nan Arsenal, Liu, is also under a cloud, having already received notice of degradation to five degrees below his present brevet rank. All this will very likely give these gentlemen a less exalted notion of their own importance and lead or teach them to be a trifle more considerate towards all those who have not been so fortunate as themselves, in the matter of being descended from distinguished persons, or having made important and influential connections by marriage alliances, etc. Every dog must have his day.

The Athletic Sports came off on the Race Course yesterday, in the midst of a dust storm. The sun shone in the sky like a disc of silver, and the sky was obscured with very fine dust brought over by the recent blow from the deserts of Mongolia. The sun in consequence did not show anybody, nor the heat prove relaxing, in fact the weather was rather the other way, that is bracing to those who had to undergo violent exercise in the open air. We still have a flower show, and Regatta to come off this season, and if the weather is as good as it was yesterday we may expect to have some pleasure on those days. We are glad to hear you are going to build a Railroad to Canton and hope it will prove a successful and profitable undertaking for all concerned.

TIENTSIN.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Tientsin, April 28th.
Yesterday Mr. Joseph von Hany, Austrian Consul at Shanghai, left here by boat for Peking. It is stated that Mr. H. Mandl is awaiting his arrival at Tungchow. Last November Messrs. H. Mandl & Co. filed with Li Hung-chang their tender, with terms and conditions, on behalf of their friends in Vienna, in regard to the big loan of thirty million taels to build the proposed railway, and it was reported here that they had secured the loan, but that it was too good to be true, although many people here, both Chinese and foreigners, declare it to be a fact that Mr. H. Mandl is on his way to Peking to settle it finally. There is no doubt that Messrs. Mandl & Co. did tender for the loan through their Chinese friends at Peking. They have also been very successful in regard to pushing forward the bronze-steel guns and smokeless powder, and at Peking they have Herr von Brandt at their backs, who is one of the best officials in Peking for mercantile purposes.

I enclose you a copy of a sketch map of the Peking Western Hills where the rich coal and mineral mines are situated, the same is furnished by the Chinese friends of Messrs. Mandl & Co. In this matter also Herr von Brandt is, I hear, taking a great interest.
It is definitely fixed that Li Hung-chang will leave Tientsin on the 23rd ult. in the Hsinyu 1st Port Arthur, etc. on a tour of inspection.
Last night a fire broke out in the north-west suburb, known as Yui Shun Shan, and I believe it is still burning. Already over one hundred houses have been destroyed, the property of Tien Taotai, valued at over Tls. 100,000. The value of goods stored in the godown there is stated to be over a million taels.

April 29th.
Mr. Gardner, the new manager of the Hongkong Bank, accompanied by his wife, has left for Peking.

To-day Cheng, an Anhwei man and literary graduate, was beheaded. He with three others had been hanged on at the various camps, and they were arrested ten days ago, and tried and sentenced, by a military court. They were charged with being members of a secret society, of which Chang was said to be the chief, and for issuing the famous placard last year, inciting people to rise and kill all the foreigners, and then march to Peking. Ten days ago he tried on the same game, by sending to the military college a bogus official despatch duly signed and sealed. His three associates were sentenced to be banished.

Mr. Ma Kie-tchung is still here, and daily visits Li Hung-chang. His wife is said to be in connection with the Chefoo gold mines. Mr. Watson, after seeing the Viceroy, left by the Fungshun for Chifu to see what can be done with the Ping-tai gold mines, started by Mr. Becker.

Mr. Ma Kie-tchung is busy here making arrangements about the three new steamers which are to be added to the C.M.S.N. Co's fleet.—Mercury.

April 30th.
We learn that eight of the men who left Tungshan in a panic have been discharged, but nothing has been done with the Cantonese who were the cause of all the trouble. They certainly should have been dealt with for their assault, whatever was done with the runaway foreigners. It is said that the former were simply allowed to retire from the place, in order, doubtless, to avoid the responsibility of dealing with them.

The scheme for improving the river has apparently fallen to the ground through the opposition of the Taotai. Only another illustration of how things are not done in the river channel. If they would even keep the river channel free from obstruction from junks it would be something in the interest of the growing trade connected with so important a place as Tientsin.

The French Municipality is still agitating its waterworks scheme. Whether the British Municipality, burdened with a "white elephant," will be able to join and make the scheme a success, is uncertain. It hardly seems possible for the smaller body alone to carry it through. It is greatly to be hoped that the scheme can be carried through in completion in some way. After a succession of cloudy, damp days, we are now having dry, hot, windy weather. Vegetation is coming forward quite rapidly. The water on the plain is gradually receding, mainly from evaporation. It was not as high by several inches as in the flood of 1870, and if anything, is receding more slowly. When it was possible to plant wheat last autumn, there is promise of a good yield. So of the spring-sown wheat. But there are large tracts of land yet under water.

April 30th.
The band at Trechun presents a gay appearance during the whole shipyard season, as it is used as a transit godown for the whole import trade; but at present all other merchandise is overwhelmed by the immense stacks of rice which are piled up along its whole length and breadth, and as high as a house. The wholesale destruction of the cereal crops by the floods last summer has left a large vacuum to be filled up by imported grain, and such is the scarcity of rice in northern grain that rice which is in ordinary times a luxury beyond the means of the people is now cheaper than their own products.
His Excellency the Viceroy is immensely pleased at the way in which the German paper has vindicated the Chinese action in the matter of the audience; and for the time being Germany occupies the position of the most meritorious of all the Western "tributaries."—N. C. Daily News.

IMPORTANT INTIMATION.

NOW READY.

(PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY.)

"THE HONGKONG DIRECTORY AND HONG LIST FOR THE FAR EAST,"

A DIRECTORY AND WORK OF REFERENCE ON ALL IMPORTANT LOCAL SUBJECTS FOR HONGKONG, MACAO, CHINA, JAPAN, THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS, SIAM, INDU-CHINA, NORTH BORNEO, THE PHILIPPINES, AND COREA, FOR THE YEAR 1891.

PRICE THREE DOLLARS.

"THE HONGKONG DIRECTORY" has again been enlarged and is THE CHEAPEST, MOST COMPLETE, AND ONLY RELIABLE WORK OF THE KIND PUBLISHED IN THE FAR EAST.

THE above named work, published at the Office of "THE HONGKONG TELEGRAPH," contains a Directory for the Ports in the large portion of Asia comprised between Peking; in the Straits Settlements, and the Northern Chinese Ports, including Wladivostok, Formosa, the Treaty Ports of China and Japan, Cebu, Manila, the Philippine Islands, Corea, British North Borneo, the British Colony of Hongkong, and the Portuguese Colony of Macao. It also contains the Principal Treaties between European countries and the United States and the countries East of the Straits, including the Treaties and Conventions between China and Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, the United States of America, Brazil, Japan, Peru, Spain, and Portugal; together with conditions of Trade, and the Port Customs, Consular, and Harbour Regulations for the Ports of China and Japan; also descriptions of the various Ports, with the latest Trade Statistics taken from the Reports of the Imperial Maritime Customs and other reliable sources.

The various Governments and Municipal Corporations, and all Public Bodies and Companies, Bankers, Merchants, Consuls, Professional men, and other Residents, have supplied the necessary matter, upon forms specially sent for that purpose to insure accuracy. The Naval and Military portions have been taken from the latest published official lists and revised at Headquarters; in fact, no pains have been spared to make "THE HONGKONG DIRECTORY AND HONG LIST FOR THE FAR EAST" a handy and perfectly reliable book of reference for all classes.

In addition to the information enumerated above "THE HONGKONG DIRECTORY AND HONG LIST FOR THE FAR EAST" for 1891 contains a carefully revised INDEX TO THE ORDINANCES OF HONGKONG;

A SPECIAL LIST OF FOREIGNERS employed in Steamers making short voyages from Hongkong;

THE PRIVATE RESIDENCES of the Principal Government Officials, the Leading Merchants, the Foreign Consuls, Professional Men, Justices of the Peace, &c.

A LADIES DIRECTORY FOR HONGKONG; The latest and only reliable

PLAN OF THE CITY OF VICTORIA, showing the proposed Reclamations, and all recent additions and improvements;

AND A Mass of interesting information on various subjects, culled from the most trustworthy sources.

A SPECIAL FEATURE IN THIS PUBLICATION WILL BE A CHAPTER ON SPORT, (amused and expected to daily) dealing with almost every branch of the subject, including RACING, CRICKET, ATHLETICS, AQUATICS, &c. &c. &c.

THE WINNERS OF ALL IMPORTANT RACES AT HONGKONG, SHANGHAI, FOCHOW, and AMOY, with times, and other interesting particulars, carefully culled from the most reliable sources, make "THE HONGKONG DIRECTORY AND HONG LIST FOR THE FAR EAST" a valuable medium for all classes of sportsmen.
